DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The North Bluff House c. 1909 is a 2½ story five bay by two room balloon frame house that overlooks the Elk River near Port Herman. The house faces west with the main gable running north/south.

The frame block rests on a partial block foundation and is totally covered with wood shingle. The medium sloped composition tile roof has two 6/6 gable dormers and a central cupola. Two single story frame wings were originally poarches and later closed in as was the shed roof front porch.

The west facade has a central entrance and corresponding 6/6 sash windows with slightly beaded trim. The Tuschan columns that support the porch roof have been partially covered. The eaves of the main roof are extended and the rafter ends are slightly decorated. The dormers have extended eaves also, while the cupola has six pane lights in each side and a small roof top balustrade.

The gable ends are basically the same with 6/6 sash windows on the first and second floors. The south end has two 4/4 attic lights that flank the brick chimney stack.

The east side has a projecting single bay tower entrance with a irregular sheathing of fishscale shingles.

The interior has been generally remodeled but a central stair does rise to the second floor in the north parlor. A square newel post supports a molded handrail along with square balusters. A fireplace is found on the south north wall with the date 1909 set in stone. This is undoubtedly when the house was built.

A board and batten garage with shed additions is found to the east of the house.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The North Bluff House is one of the larger and earlier vacation structures built outside Port Herman. With the increased recreational interests in the area in the late 19th century this and many other structures were built to accomodate summer vacationers. This structure was undoubtedly built with the well known shingle style in mind.
